

September 2005

NFLT Newsletter

The Suspense is Over: Our Fall Potluck is Coming

Yes, that's right! We WILL be having a potluck this year. The annual Fall Potluck will be on Monday, November 14th at 6:30 pm. True, it will be a little later, but absence makes the heart grow fonder! On top of that compelling reason, we will hopefully have more information to share regarding future workshops, and we can excitedly chat about the fast-approaching Scrooge production. Our potluck is a great excuse to get together, touch base and have some great food, so we hope to see everyone there. An Executive meeting will follow.

POTLUCK: mon. nov. 14 at 6:30 pm

Other Tidbits of

News:

Website: Check it out! Scrooge info to be posted and there's always lots on the website to admire and browse through. Have a look at www.nflt.ca

Trillium Foundation: Lighting money has been spent (lights and lighting board are awesome), tools will be purchased once safe storage has been found, curtains are coming, and workshops are being discussed (about which much interest has been expressed). We'll have lots to chat about at this fall's Pot Luck. See you there!

Scrooge

We are all eagerly anticipating the upcoming presentation of Scrooge, an adaptation of Charles Dickens' popular tale, A Christmas Carol. Doug Boulter not only wrote this adaptation, he is also the director of this ambitious five-part dramatic play, which is done in minimalist style (in setting only). This style was chosen as a means to put particular emphasis on props, costume and characterization. Speaking of characters (and ambition!), there is quite a cast adding their talents to this play. The rehearsals have begun with a very large cast of close to thirty souls! There are plenty of new faces about, and we are extremely happy to welcome them into our world of little theatre. The show will go on in early December – the perfect time to gear up a village that goes uniquely Dickens-happy during that month each year. Hmm... perhaps the possibility of a Dickens Festival in future years might be a good tourist draw for the village... Okay, better get back on topic here! As you can see, Doug, the excitement is mounting, the creative juices are flowing, and the streets are a-buzz with talk of Scrooge. We're looking forward to it!

Production Dates: